

RESEARCH PROGRAM

- My research interests are transdisciplinary and lie at the intersections of a critical examination of aging in place, the social organization of care work, and the implications of gerontechnological optimism.
- My research program is grouped around 3 themes:
 1. Contributions of information work to family care work
 2. Aging and the role of social infrastructures (i.e. public libraries) in supporting social inclusion
 3. Aging and the role of information technologies

More info: nicoledalmer.ca

Nicole Dalmer, MLIS PhD

Assistant Professor | Department
Of Health, Aging & Society |
McMaster University (Canada)

Associate Director | McMaster
University's Gilbrea Centre For
Studies In Aging